Chinese Organic Product

How do you access Chinese organic market?

China’s National Standard for Organic Products was developed in 2005 and Chinese organic market has been increasing rapidly accompany with the focus on food safety and environment protection by the public in the recent years. Now, China is one of the most attractive organic markets in the world.

China’s new National Standard for Organic Products GB/T19630-2011 and the modified Implementation Rules for Organic Products Certification together with the List of Certified Organic Products in China enforced on March 1st, 2012. The new requirements enhance the management of the imported organic products. It is required that if the imported products will be sold as organic products in China, certification according to GB/T 19630-2011 is obliged.

If your organic products want to access Chinese market, the first step is to get certification according to China’s National Standard for Organic Products (GB/T 19630-2011).
